passed away
on 21st February 2017....

The John Fussey's executors investigated and learned about the Dr G R Handy Memroial Trust which is a scholarship fund conducted by Chundikuli Trust Fund (UK Registered Charity).

The executor (The solicitors acting on behalf of the Executors) wrote a letter addressing it to the CTF on April 13, 2017, requesting clarification whether G R Handy Memorial trust is part of CTF.

CTF committee appointed CTF President to liaise with the executor. CTF confirmed that G R Handy Memorial trust is part of CTF

Provided that if any of the aforementioned shares of my residuary estate are chargeable for Inheritance Tax because such share or shares are not exempt by virtue of Section 24 of the Inheritance Act 1984 my Trustees shall divide my Residuary Estate into equal third shares before the payment of Inheritance

In 2017, the executors of John Fussey's will, expressed their intention to donate the fund to the G R Handy Memorial Trust Scholarship Fund, which was one of the SJC scholarship trust funds managed by CTF.

This decision was made because the G R Handy Memorial Trust (managed by KPMG Ford Rhodes) had become defunct. After conducting their research, the executors discovered the G R Handy Memorial Trust within CTF and chose to contribute the fund as an alternative trust.

A charity can only accept a donation that furthers its purposes (or one of its purposes). If accepting a donation would require the charity to apply the funds outside of its purposes, the donation should be refused, as to do otherwise would place its trustees in breach of trust.

When a charity named in a will is defunct, the executor's first step is to confirm the charity's status and any name changes or mergers through the Charity Commission. If the charity has ceased to exist, the executor will typically seek to redirect the gift to another, similar charity, either under the principle of cy-près or by applying to the Charity Commission.

AN IMPORTANT DOCUMENT

The funds were 100% for St John's College.
Our then President has signed and promised the solicitor firm that 100% of the funds will be transferred to St John's College.

A ring-fenced fund only for St John's College

But a large proportion of the money donated to CTF has subsequently been put aside into ECT Ltd, an entity newly formed in 2021 in Sri Lanka and is held unaccounted to CTF nor SJC nor CGC.

Year 2021 As Per 2021 AGM Minutes.....

The administration of SJC at that time and CMS Governing body requested to move the medical projects outside SJC.

A separate trust was set up to carry out medical projects.

Eagle care Trust – A company limited by guarantee was formed in January 2021 to carry out the medical projects.

One of the governance point was that Eagle Care Trust will produce the first audited accounts for and forward to CTF.

Eagle Care Trust

A company Ltd by guarantee was formed in Sri Lanka
on

13th January 2021

Registered office and place of Business:
No 65, Kandy Road, Chundikuli, Jaffna.

At the time of setting up this company, it was stated that it shall produce audited accounts and forward to CTF

Complications and Proposals

Until the formation of ECT, Dr G R Handy and Mr Fussey Memorial Trust Fund was under the CTF and SJC.

Since the inception of the ECT no audited accounts neither annual reports nor projects information were shared with the CTF.

How it should be.....

Our ongoing resolve to reclaim CTF funds for educational purposes continues!

2025 AGM has approved to take action and recover these funds for the benefit of the two schools.

"This presentation has been produced by the CTF for the benefit of the CSJPPA/CTF in May 2025, with the best available information."
